Product Information

Either Oar, a contemporary dining table, provides a sturdy and buoyant life raft with removable legs that convert into oars. As an observation of how people use ad hoc objects in such situations, Either Oar offers a ride to safety in times of flash flooding. Addressing the issues of climate change, the table hints at its secondary function as a raft through the detailing of the oars and seafaring fittings, aiming to bring to conversation the issues of Climate Change. The first two editions of this table were exclusively designed and manufactured to function as a life raft, with the official launch of the first edition in the River Thames during London Design Week 2006. Either Oar will be available as a contemporary dining table produced in veneered birch ply and solid timber in September 2007.
